

Reservoir Advocacy & Alliance Network (RAAN)

Alliance development and stakeholder engagement have always been at the center of our work. The ability to bring meaningful relationships and insights can make all the difference in addressing unmet healthcare needs or developing advocacy campaigns.

The Reservoir Advocacy & Alliance Network (RAAN) builds on our history of stakeholder engagement and formalizes a network of Reservoir experts and seasoned strategic partners who enable us to bring the most diverse and thoughtful stakeholders and viewpoints to bear for any health issue, therapy, disease state or coalition.

The RAAN is also essential in supporting Reservoir's work in health equity, ensuring that we bring a diverse set of voices to the table as we seek to advance programs and policies that reduce health disparities and ensure equal opportunity for health

■ Lee Lynch	Women's health and older Americans
■ Michelle Nealy	Social justice
■ Shawn Gremminger	Provider and employer communities
■ Dr. Ronny A. Bell	Health disparities; American Indian health
■ Dr. Angeline Bushy, R.N.	Nursing, rural communities and healthcare, public and community health, cultural competence
■ Dr. Dennis Cryer	Provider community
■ Deanna Darlington	Multicultural populations and health equity
■ Steve Grossman	Rare disorders community
■ Gillian Parrish	Cancer community
■ Katy Spangler	Employer community
■ Aimee Thorne-Thomsen	Latino/a community
■ Lori Weinstein	Faith-based communities, women's health and wellness